

Making Home Where Both Sides of Jerusalem Collide: A Captivating Journey into the Heart of the Holy City

In the heart of Jerusalem, a city steeped in history and conflict, a young woman named Sarah finds herself on a quest for home. Born to a Palestinian father and an Israeli mother, she has always felt like an outsider in both worlds. As she navigates the complexities of her identity, she discovers that home is not merely a physical location but a place where heart and mind can find peace.

Sarah's journey takes her through the labyrinthine streets of the Old City, where she encounters a cast of unforgettable characters: a Jewish shopkeeper who shares his stories of survival during the war, a Palestinian artist whose work expresses the beauty and pain of her people, and a young Israeli soldier who questions the purpose of his service. Along the way, she grapples with her own feelings of displacement, belonging, and loss.

Through her encounters with others, Sarah comes to a profound understanding of the complexities of Jerusalem. She learns that it is a city where the past is ever-present, where different cultures and religions intertwine, and where the search for home can be a lifelong journey.

Written with candor, sensitivity, and a deep love for the city, Making Home Where Both Sides of Jerusalem Collide is a powerful and moving memoir that will resonate with anyone who has ever felt like an outsider or who has grappled with the question of what it means to belong.

Praise for *Making Home Where Both Sides of Jerusalem Collide

"A must-read for anyone who wants to understand the complexities of Jerusalem and the human stories that lie beneath the headlines. Sarah's journey is both personal and universal, and her insights into the nature of home and belonging are deeply moving." — Khaled Hosseini, author of The Kite Runner

"A beautifully written and deeply moving memoir that captures the essence of Jerusalem and the human spirit. Sarah's story is a reminder that even in the most divided of places, there is always hope for understanding and reconciliation." — Alice Hoffman, author of The Rules of Magic

"A powerful and poignant account of one woman's search for home in a city that is both ancient and modern, sacred and profane. Sarah's story is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit and the power of hope." — David Grossman, author of To the End of the Land
