

The Unsolved Crime That Terrorized Town And Shocked The Nation

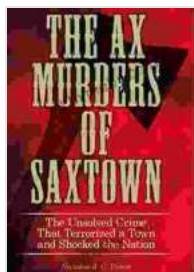

There are many theories about who killed Mary Llairet. Some of the most common theories include:

- She was killed by a random stranger. This is the theory that the police initially favored. They believed that Mary was the victim of a random attack, and that the killer was not someone who knew her.
- She was killed by her husband, Ronald Llairet. This theory was investigated by the police, but they found no evidence to support it. Ronald Llairet had an alibi for the night of the murder, and he passed a lie detector test.
- She was killed by her mother, Helen Frost. This theory was investigated by the police, but they found no evidence to support it. Helen Frost had an alibi for the night of the murder, and she passed a lie detector test.
- She was killed by a member of a satanic cult. This theory has been popularized by several books and television shows. However, there is no evidence to support it.

The murder of Mary Llairet has had a profound impact on the Circleville community. The crime has left a sense of fear and uncertainty, and many people are still afraid to talk about it.
