Evelyn and Grace are two very different sisters. Evelyn is the older sister, and she is a successful lawyer who is married with two children. Grace is the younger sister, and she is a free-spirited artist who has never married and has no children. Despite their differences, the two sisters are very close, and they love each other deeply.

When Evelyn's husband is killed in a car accident, she is devastated. She is left to raise her two young children on her own, and she feels like her whole world has been shattered. Grace comes to her sister's aid, and she helps her to cope with her grief. Grace is a source of strength and support for Evelyn, and she helps her to find the courage to move on.

A few years after Evelyn's husband dies, she meets and falls in love with a man named David. David is a kind and compassionate man, and he loves Evelyn and her children. Evelyn is hesitant to get married again, but she eventually agrees to marry David.

Grace is happy for her sister, but she is also a little bit worried about her. Grace knows that David has two children from his first marriage, and she is afraid that Evelyn will not be able to handle the challenges of being a stepmother.

Evelyn's fears are realized when she and David get married. David's children are not very welcoming to Evelyn, and they make it clear that they do not want her in their lives. Evelyn is heartbroken, and she begins to doubt her ability to be a good stepmother.

Grace is there for her sister once again, and she helps her to cope with the challenges of being a stepmother. Grace reminds Evelyn that she is a good person, and that she deserves to be loved. Evelyn eventually wins over David's children, and she becomes a loving and supportive stepmother to them.

We Belong To Each Other is a moving and thought-provoking novel that explores the complexities of love, family, and loss. Through the captivating story of two sisters, the book delves into the challenges and triumphs of life, leaving readers with a profound sense of hope and belonging.
